PLAINFIELD

The Plainfield Bowling League's cos-ume and novelty ball on Washington's birthday was the biggest social event of the year. At the start of the grand march, the big Community House auditorium was crowded. The costumes were varied and attractive. The background of the stage pictures a rising sun. The edge was covered with ferna above the American actions. Above, the American eagle flew, carry-ing American flags. In the center was the Fidelity Singing orchestra, in bet-ter form than ever before. After in-termission the novelties were introdduced. Neal Hart, who is somewhat unfamiliar to us without his usual Western part, acts the role of a sea-captain in this pic-ture. He adds new laurels to his already growing reputation by his remarkable portrayal of this new and diffice role.

Buried treasure furnishes the theme buried treasure furnishes the theme of the picture, but a presty romance is interwoven in the main plot of the story, concerning the capitain's sweetheart. It is she who proves to be God's real "gold" after many trials and adventures attending the search for the buried treasure.

Champlin Company to Open Their Engagement at the Davis Next Week With "Turn to the Bight,"

"Turn to the Right," 'the famous fun classic which will be presented by the Chas, K. Champin stock company at the Davis theatre next Monthy, matines and evening, is the kind of a play that warms the hearts of the most hardened amuse ment seeker.

It tells a quaint and anxising story of the efforts to "go straight" of a young son, and who returns to his home in a little New England village just as the old place is to be sold for a debt. Two New place is to be sold for a debt. Two New York crooks, a safe blower and a pickpocket, old pals of the young man, ar-rive in the village, meet the simple, kindsearted mother of their pal, and stick to the firsh in the battle against the village "I'd go to hell for that old lady," remarks the roughneck safe blower, and around this sentiment hinges the entire story of the play, a masterful influence of sweet, old country mother on three men who have steadily jogging the wrong trail. The safe blower and the pick-spocket filmstam the old skinding and in other astonishing and ridiculous ways save the day for Mother Euscom. People who have seen the Champlin company's production of "Turn to the Right," claim that it is as good as that given by the touring company which charged $2.50 top
